The Remains Viewed by Many Friends-The Funeral This Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon between 4 and 8 o'clock and today from 10 to 2 o'clock the remains of the late Gen. John S. Crocker, for over twenty years the warden of the District jail, were risited by a large number of his friends. The remains laid in the parlor of the family residence, No. 1419 Rhode Island avenue northwest, and were incased in a handsome clothcovered casket, bearing Masonic and Grand Army of the Republic emblems and a heavy silver plate inscribed "General John S. Crocker, died September 11, 1890." The body, which had been embalmed by Mr. John R. Wright, the undertaker, presented a life-like appearance. It was attired in a black suit, and on the left lapel was a white boutoniere and on the coffin rested a badge of the second army corps in immortelles. This was a clover leaf in blue with crimson center, in which in white appeared the words, "Ninety-third New York"—the general's old regiment—the tribute of his sens. A beautiful specimen of the "Gates ajar" rested on the mantel—the gift of

THE FRUIT COLUMN. During the afternoon yesterday the wome and children came out to the park and enjoyed wandering under the trees and seeing the various objects of interests. The feature of the festival as it is in the old country is the fruit column. This is a rounded tower rising to the height of about 30 feet. It stands on a firm base and is surrounded by a fence to protect it from the curious. The tower is an elaborate moral of fruits and vegetables.

mosaic of fruits and vegetables. The designs are skillfully wrought out so that even such an inartistic article as a beet or an Irish potato is blended in a combination that is really effective. Every variety of fruit and vegetable is employed and in the design there are squares and diamonds and stars and crosses. The work is very eleverly done and is the result of much patient labor. The column terminates in a shock of ripened corn. The American eagle with the national colors are
